Mango industry moving forward on carton uniformity

Posted at: 8:38AM, 03/16/2010

Mangos come into the United States from half a dozen different companies and in even more different carton configurations. As a result pallet counts are all over the board. Larry Nienkerk, managing partner at Splendid Products LLC in Burlingame, CA, said that another problem is that most cartons being used in the mango industry do not fit well on the standard 48- by 40-inch pallet.
